Award Renamed in Honor of Millwood School Alumnus

Each year, Millwood School presents the Humanitarian Award to a middle school student at their June Graduation and Awards Ceremony. The award was renamed this year in honor of Taylor Anderson, a graduate of Millwood School, who lost her life in the tsunami that followed the March 11 earthquake in Japan.

The award now reads:

Taylor Lane Anderson Humanitarian Award

In memory of Taylor Lane Anderson, 8th Grade Class of 2000. Taylor exemplified the essence of this award. The majority of her humanitarian service was carried out in Japan.

A humanitarian is a person who is devoted to the welfare of all human beings and who shows these values by continual care and concern for others. The faculty chooses a student who has demonstrated such actions by always reaching out to others, by showing sensitivity at all times, and by being equally kind to adults, peers, and younger children.

The recipient of the Taylor Lane Anderson Humanitarian Award is Megan Martin, who completed 8th grade at Millwood School and will be starting high school at Trinity Episcopal School in the fall. Mrs. Anderson, Taylor's mother, spoke to the assembled students and parents, and presented the award to Megan.
